NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

New York, August 13, 1869. In the corridors of the Metropolitan H tel may be seen the latest New York evanescence. It is found in the persons of

Two Mongolian Tradesmen, halling from Pekin. Their names are Choy-Chew and Sing-Man. Their appearance has thus far been a great success, although they refuse to gratify the popular desire by appearing at table. They take their meals in Celestial simplicity in the privacy of their own apartments, preferring a dinner of rice where leveliness is, to the stalled ox and publicity therewith. Morse and Dr. Libby chaperon them, protecting them from the expensive obsequiousness of the dusky Jeemses on the one hand, and the perforating stares of the hotel guests on the other. Yesterday they called, it is said, to pay their respects to the Chinese glant, Chang, who is under engagement at Wood's, and with whom they held friendly relations in China. To-day they intend doing the city-calling upon Mr. A. T. Stewart and learning the principles upon which he amassed his millions. They have just arrived from San Francisco, and have compiled copious notes from their observation of the teeming commercial landscapes that were unfolded before them. Both Mr. Choy-Chew and Mr. Sing-Man were educated according to the strictest principles of Confucius. You will please observe that I have spelled the names of these somewhat celebrated Celestials in the same way throughout my entire mention of them. In this respect I am infinitely superior to most of the newspapers here, which commence introducing Mr. Choy-Chew under that title, follow him up as Mr. Chang Cho, and finally dismiss him as Mr Chow-Chow. These orthographical caprices vary to all possible degrees in all the newspapers taken together. You pays your money and you takes your choice. Mr. Choy-Chew, in particular, is an accomplished speaker of English. He has been living nearly a dozen years in San Francisco, and is not in any manner connected with the coolie trade. His visit to this city has no reference whatever to the enterprise of Mr. Koopmanschaap. He has merely come for the purpose of seeing "how they do these things in New York." Both he and his friend, however, found it difficult to overcome their prejudices against American culinary tastes. The charms of the chopstick outshine those of the silver fork, and the savoriest bonne bouche in the way of an artistically cooked bird cannot console them for the loss of the palatable nests of their native land. Never was a greater mistake made than in supposing that in summer time All New York is Out of Town. Whatever of New York is out of town is more than made amends for by the constant influx of people from the West and South. This summer, in addition to the average quantity of Southerners, unnumbered Cubans have made their homes here. Instead of spreading themselves at Niagara and Newport, Long Branch and Lake George, Cape May and Atlantic City. the Catskills and the Adirondacks, they take furnished houses and apartments in the nicest streets, and transform the suburbs into scenes of fashion and enjoyment. After viewing the crowded audiences present at all the large theatres, it would be difficult to convince you that nobody except commonplace people were in town. Even the private and proscenium boxes occasionally contain those rare specimens of exotic feminine loveliness whose appearance one generally looks for at any other time than during the dog-days. Thus, the other evening, a young Arabian beauty, born upon the borders of the Red Sea, whose young gaze probably first rested upon Arabia Petraes, who was educated in Persia, and who is destined this winter to be the creatrice of great "emotion among upper New York circles-this young beauty occupied one of the lower proscenium boxes at one of the first theatres in this city. One individual kept her company, a dark-browed, swarthy-complexioned man, whose eyes glistened like black diamonds, and who looked as though he might have been brouzed by a desert sun and commanded a company of savage marauders. Both vehemently applauded the performance, until the diamonds with which they were loaded rattled together and shook forth sparks. All of "India's glowing gems" shone upon them, and perhaps it will not be irrelevant to say that "some Arabia breathed from vonder box."

Dion Boucleault's New Play, entitled Formosa, or the Railroad to Ruin, is to be produced at Niblo's Garden the week after next. It has never yet been produced either in Europe or this country, and is indeed the latest thing from Boucicault's seissors. The only Formosa of which the literary public has hitherto been cognizant is the Formosa of George Psalmanazar, the clever impostor who about one hundred and fifty years ago published that fabulous account of the Island of Formosa which so completely imposed upon the learned critics of the age. So far as audacity and fertility of invention go, Mr. Boneicault is quite as happy as his illustrious prototype, and the title of his new piece is significant and suggestive. The chief difficulty of Jarrett and Palmer has been to find an actress willing to take the principal (or rather unprincipled) female character, who is an enchanting combination of perfidy and frailty. These gentlemen have not yet made their selection, although the play is aunounced. Among the open for the forthcoming season is one by festive pedagogue, who thus expresses himself: "Dear Boys-Come back September 14." This touching adjuration may seen by any one who chooses to closely scrutinize the educational advertisements in the New York newspapers. It is from the same individual who last year published, under the same head:-"Dear Boys-Trouble commences September 14." He has an academy at Flushing, and is said to possess a charming genius for 'understanding the ins and outs of boy-nature. ALI BABA.

Amusements. AT THE WALNUT the regular season will commence to-morrow evening with a new play entitled Duty, by Henry Leslie, author of The Orange Girl. This plece is in a prologue and three acts, and it is said to have an interesting plot and a number of highly effective scenes. It will and a number of highly effective scenes. It will be placed upon the stage with new scenery, effects, etc., and with the following cast:—

"Silas Engleheart," Mr. Walcot; "Ruby Dayrell," Mr. Lewis Morrison (his first appearance); "Trafalgar Joe," Mr. W. H. Bailey;
"Augustus Brown," Mr. W. A. Chapman;
"Jonathan Scarley," Mr. W. L. Street; "Hetty Arnold," Mrs. Walcot; "Mrs. Engleheart," Mrs.

A LIFE SAVING REFORMATION .- A radical change has een introduced in the practice of medicine. Physicians have ceased to torture and prostrate their patients. Instead of pulling down, they build up; instead of assaulting nature, they assist her. Cupping, leeching, blistering, venesection, calomel, antimony, stunifying parcetics, and rasping purgatives, once the favorite resources of the faculty, are now rarely resorted to even by the most dogmatic members of the profession. The old creed was that disease was something which must be expelled by violent artificial means, irrespective of the wear and tear of the vital organization in the process. The new creed recognizes the improvement of the general health as essential to the cure of all local ailments. Hence it is that Hos-TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the most potent vegetable tonic that pharmacy has ever brought to the assistance of nature in her struggles with disease, has been cor dially approved by practitioners of the modern school. It is pleasant to reflect that reason and philosophy have at last been victorious over the errors of the past, and that thousands, and tens of thousands, of human beings are alive and well to-day, who would indubitably be mouldering in their graves had they been subjected to the pains and penalties which were deemed orthodox and indispensable thirty or forty years ago.

Preventive medication was scarcely thought of then: but now it is considered of paramount importance, and the celebrity of the standard invigorant, alterative and restorative of the age (a title which HOSTETTER'S BIT-TERS have fairly earned by their long career of success), is mainly due to its efficiency as a protective preparation. A course of the BITTERS is urgently recommended at this season of the year as a safe and certain antidote to the malaria which produces intermittent remittent fevers, diarrhoea, dysentery, and other maladies.
